Blah, Principal, Kiang Nangbah Government College, Jowai introduced the programme and presented a brief highlight on the aims and policies of the NEP 2020. While appreciating the organising committee for conducting the workshop, she asserted that the workshop offered an opportunity to all stakeholders and the participants to come forward and interact with the experts for a better understanding of the implementation of the educational policy.

The Inaugural address was followed by the workshop in which Prof. S. M. Sungoh, Department of Education, NEHU, Shillong, Prof. G. Bez, Department of Chemistry, NEHU, and Prof. A. P. Pati, Department of Commerce, NEHU, Shillong, presented the aims, objectives and features of the NEP 2020 and its policy in the present context.

Prof. S. M. Sungoh, Department of Education, NEHU, Shillong highlighted on the implementation of NEP 2020 and its policy at the Undergraduate programmes at the North-Eastern Hill University. In her presentation, she talked on the Curriculum and Credit

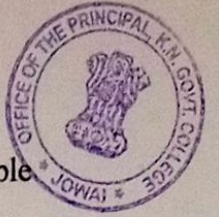

Framework for Undergraduate Programmes. She calls attention to the public notice by UGC on the recommendation of NEP 2020 for revision of Choice Based Credit System, to instill innovation and flexibility in higher education, the Curriculum and Credit Framework for UG programmes, and the measures for adoption of the same by all higher educational institutions. Further, she stressed on the main purpose of higher education which is quality education and the transformation of the curriculum with varied courses. The focus is on quality higher education which is student centric and which concentrates on the individual and the production of good, thoughtful, creative and well-rounded individuals. She also emphasised on the major and minor courses, multidisciplinary courses and value added courses. She also highlighted that the framework as per the NEP's recommendation focuses on flexibility in completion of courses, choice based credit system, double major and multiple entry and exit points.

Speaking at length on the major principles of NEP 2020, the different Under Graduate programmes as recommended by NEP were highlighted. The main features of the new curriculum were also presented. The curriculum structure lays emphasis on the major and minor disciplines as well as the introduction of common courses for both programmes. She concluded on an important note relating to the preparation of syllabus that will be done based on the combination of courses with other disciplines.

Prof. G. Bez from the Department of Chemistry, NEHU began with a reference to the challenges faced by teachers and how to overcome it. He spoke on the relevance of teachers and their sustainability. Echoing the same thoughts as spoken earlier by the previous speaker, he also highlighted on the curriculum and credit framework for undergraduate programmes. He elucidated on the Undergraduate degree program with single major and the Multidisciplinary Undergraduate program as well as the Common courses for both the programs including Vocational Education and Training (Minor), Multidisciplinary Courses (MDCs), Skill Enhancement Courses (SECs), Ability Enhancement Courses (AECs), Value Added Courses (VACs), Vocational Education and Training, and Internship. He also explained in detail the minimum credit requirements as well as the Semester and Category-wise distribution of credits for the Under Graduate Programmes.

Prof. A. P. Pati from the Department of Commerce also explained on the Four Year Undergraduate Program (FYUP) offered by NEHU. He mentioned that instead of the three disciplines, there will be five broad disciplines as defined by the University Grants Commission (UGC). For the personality and all round holistic development of a student, he cited the example of a student of Commerce major who has the option to take minor subjects from science and arts. He also expressed that NEP 2020 basically aims for multidisciplinary and he further expanded on the NEP as a student centric policy with multiple entry and exit points.

Besides the lectures delivered by the esteemed resource persons, there were interactions and deliberations among all the participants. The workshop concluded with an overwhelming response from all the participants who presented their views, comments, observations, clarifications and doubts which benefitted everyone as key stakeholders in comprehending the importance and implementation of NEP 2020 in Higher Educational Institutions.

The workshop concluded with a formal vote of thanks from Dr. T. Papang, Member Secretary, NEP & CUET Committee, who expressed his gratitude to the distinguished guests and resource persons, the participants who are the faculty members from K. N. G.
